A 23-year-old Calgary man was killed on June 12 when the pickup he was driving struck a commercial vehicle on the QEII. Police say the driver of the truck rear-ended the larger vehicle.

A 23-year-old Calgary man was killed when the Ford pickup he was driving rear-ended a northbound tractor-trailer unit as it was stopped in the median and waiting to turn west off the Queen Elizabeth II Highway onto Twp. Rd. 310 shortly before 10:50 a.m. Thursday, say police.

The Airdrie Integrated Traffic Unit, Didsbury RCMP, Didsbury Fire Department and Alberta Health Services' emergency medical services personnel all responded to the crash.

The driver and sole occupant of the tractor-trailer unit was taken by ground ambulance to Didsbury hospital for examination and treatment of what police described as minor injuries.

The QE II was detoured onto Highway 2A at the Didsbury and Carstairs overpasses from about 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. while the RCMP's collision analyst examined the scene.

Cpl. Warren Wright of the Didsbury RCMP said it wasn't known if speed played a factor in the fatality. "Ultimately, (the collision analyst) probably can months down the road tell us how fast the guy was going within a certain range, but I can't tell you why the fellow didn't see the stopped semi," Wright said.

It is also not yet known if alcohol was a factor in the crash, he said.

"That will be for the medical examiner to determine," he said.

Weather was not a factor and road conditions were good at the time, he said.

The police and medical examiner investigations were continuing at press time Monday.

'Skitching' mishap lands Didsbury youth in hospital

BY PAUL FREY
MVP Staff

A 17-year-old Didsbury boy was flown to Foothills Medical Centre by STARS air ambulance for treatment of a head injury following a skateboarding mishap in town on June 12.

The mishap occurred on 23 Street shortly after 8 p.m. as the boy was being pulled by an automobile while on a skateboard.

While so-called "skitching," the boy hit the vehicle he was being pulled by, causing him to fall to the pavement, say police.

He was not wearing a helmet at the time of the incident, say police.

The boy was transported to the Zion Evangelical Missionary Church where STARS picked him up and transported him to Calgary.

Cam Heke, a spokesperson with STARS, was not able to confirm the extent of the boy's injuries when reached for comment on June 13.

Didsbury RCMP are investigating the incident and charges against the 16-year-old driver of the vehicle that was pulling the victim are pending, said Cpl. Warren Wright.

RCMP strongly discourages anyone from skitching, he said.

"These are incredibly dangerous activities, first and foremost," he said. "You're hanging onto a motor vehicle, which has the ability to reach unsafe speeds. It's a very heavy piece of equipment (and) you're an unprotected person on wheels."

"You're not wearing any safety equipment; you're not a trained professional. Obviously, it's kind of a thrill-seeking adventure, but the problem is all you need to do is go into the Internet and Google that type of activity and it comes up with fatalities."

While accomplices driving the vehicles can be charged for putting people in danger, Wright said the main message is that serious injury or death could result from engaging in this illegal activity.

"It's an incredibly dangerous sport and I want the community to be aware that this is something that appears to be becoming more popular amongst the youth, but it needs to be stopped," Wright said. "We're just trying to prevent the fatalities and the injuries."

Administrators to look at town utility rate policy

BY PAUL FREY
MVP Staff

Town administration is investigating changing the way it bills utility customers after a council discussion on the topic at the June 10 meeting.

Currently the town charges what it terms a "penalty" if a bill isn't paid by the due date of the 25th of each month. The penalty is calculated at 1.5 per cent monthly.

But other utility operators using similar billing methods have been sued successfully under section 347 of the Criminal Code, which stipulates that an annual interest rate cannot exceed 60 per cent.

Coun. Joyce McCoy brought the item forward at the council meeting after being contacted by several residents, who, being on fixed incomes, could not pay their bills by the 25th of the month because they receive income cheques on the 30th.

As such, they were being charged interest on interest because they could not pay on time.

In an interview, McCoy said she wanted to bring the matter to town administrators' attention to see if the practice could be corrected.

She said town administrators are getting a legal opinion on the way the interest rate is calculated.

"We also asked them to come back with some feedback on the (billing) deadline to see whether we should be moving it towards the end of the month," she said.

McCoy said because of billing software the town used when the system was first set up, the town needed to make the due date the 25th of each month in order to get the bills out to customers on time.

Since that time, the town has new billing software, but hasn't changed the due date, McCoy said.

"But we're getting quite a bit of feedback from (retired) people who say they can't pay their (bill) on time. So they're penalized because of that. But if (the due date) was the 30th, that would give them the banking days they need to have the payment transferred to the town," she said.

McCoy said if administrators changed the wording on the interest policy to an annual rate, instead of a monthly one – and adjusted the rate accordingly – the town could save a potential lawsuit.

"We're never going to be under any sort of danger of anyone doing a class action lawsuit because we're just too small, but my concern was more to make sure that we're being upfront with people and honest. And if it is an issue that (for) a majority of people that the 25th doesn't work for them, we should consider moving to the 30th," she said.

McCoy said town staff have indicated that they can move the due date to the 30th of the month and will be coming back to council with a recommendation on the billing issue at a future date.

BLOCK PARTY FUN – Joanna Patterson, 8, keeps two hula hoops going during the block party hosted by the town on Friday. Activities included a climbing wall, face painting, a bouncy house, games and contests. The event, originally scheduled for outdoors on 19th Avenue, had to be moved indoors to the Didsbury Memorial Complex due to rain on June 13.

LUB amendment to encourage historic resource designation

BY PAUL FREY
MVP Staff

On June 10 Didsbury town council passed first reading of an amendment to the land use bylaw to include a new section on municipal historic resources.

The current LUB is silent on municipal historic resources, so town staff introduced the amendment to make it easier to track renovations made to buildings that are designated as municipal historic resources by town council.

"What we want is for owners to apply for development permits to do anything to the property, painting, anything. Typically, (on) most properties, there's certain things you can do that don't require a development permit and so there's a whole bunch of exemptions in our land use bylaw not requiring a development permit. What we want is to have a good historic record of what's happening to the municipal historic resources," said Karen Henry, the town's manager of planning and infrastructure.

"We're asking (property owners) to apply for a development permit for anything. Even if they're painting it," Henry said, noting that development permits for minor projects such as painting will be free.

The advantage to the amendment, Henry said, is that the town will then have a historic record of any type of renovation completed on a building that is designated as a municipal historic resource.

If property owners want to renovate the inside of a designated building to restore certain period features, however, the building permit that would accompany that work would cost the property owner the regular building permit fee.

"We had identified that we would have to do this sometime last fall, but with the election and the change of council, we just didn't get it on the agenda," Henry added.

A public hearing on the amendment is scheduled for July 8 at 6:30 p.m. in council chambers.

Local businesses eager for college suds

BY JOSEPH HO
MVP Staff

Restaurants and bars in town are thirsty for the Olds College Teaching Brewery's selection of beers.

According to Tony Stolz, the brewery's business manager, beer sales are higher than expected, currently running four months ahead of production.

But he said the brewery's not getting ahead of itself, keeping growth measured.

"What we're trying to do is build at a reasonable pace so that we can do a good job serving everybody. So far the guys have been able to produce a really good quality beer and we just want to make sure that we keep that up," Stolz said.

"There's good demand for it. People want our product in their facilities but you want to make sure that you're serving them well. It's hard to keep a customer."

Since production started in January, the brewery has slowly added clients who want to serve its beer, Stolz said.

There are several venues in town that serve Olds College beer, he added.

One of them is Our Flames Restaurant and Lounge, which carries the brewery's Olds School beer.

The suds started appearing on tap because owner Prokopi Roussakos wanted to support the college.

The restaurant is considering adding the brewery's Hay City, a mild wheat beer, to its menu because Roussakos expects people's tastes to trend toward craft beers over mass-produced ones.

"That market is going that way, the beers and such," he said. "We're thinking about getting more beers on tap and adding more craft selection as well."

Personally, Roussakos likes the selection the brewery offers and the local connection.

"There's different varieties. I mean, there's different taste for everybody and that's what they cater to. That's a good thing about them," Roussakos said. "That it's homegrown, kind of natural ... it's all their own beer. Just small-town Olds beer."

Other venues in Olds that serve beer brewed at the college include Tracks Pub, The Bowl and Mr. Ribs Bar and Grill.

It's beer that's made in town and for the town, as shown by the brewery's desire to branch into the public, Stolz said.

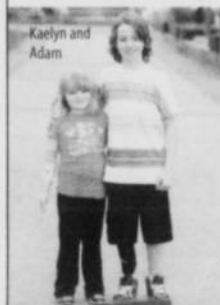

"I think people are really excited about it. I mean, it's pretty cool having a brewery in your town and our philosophy is to engage the community," he said. "We don't even see this brewery as ours. We see it as the community's. This is a community brewery. So we want everybody's input. We want them to feel like it's theirs."

Stolz said the brewery operates on a small scale so it's no threat to larger breweries. Beer sales go back into the school's brewmaster program, which supplies the brewery with future employees.

"We're a social enterprise and that means the brewery exists to support the students. We're not trying to get rich on it," he said. "We're trying to produce the best quality beer, give the students the best learning experience we can and we're here to support the industry, period."

Softball player headed to summer games

BY PAUL FREY
MVP Staff

A local softball player is headed to the Alberta Summer Games later next month as part of the bantam Zone 2 girls team.

Kennedy Murphy will be roaming the diamond after she was chosen for the team at tryout sessions that ended on June 1 in Calgary.

The selection process began in September 2013 when 60 girls showed up in Strathmore.

Players did a series of fielding drills followed by batting practice. Two other sessions were held in Calgary during the winter months and 20 girls were invited to the June 1 session. A total of 14 players made the team.

Murphy, a Westcott-area resident, usually plays second base, centre or right field. She plays with the Red Deer Rage.

"Our last tryout at the beginning of the month was drills and then we played about 10 innings of scrimmage," said Murphy.

"I was kind of worried about (the June 1 session) to be totally honest. Our zone (stretches) to the outer zone of Calgary, so a bunch of city girls were there. I did good fielding. My batting was a bit iffy, but it was a good day in all, I think."

Murphy will now join her zone teammates July 24 to 27 in Airdrie and is hoping she can help the team win as many games as possible.

"I hope to really play at my personal best and see what the other girls have. I'm looking forward to being around the team and being in a different kind of environment than what I'm used to playing at. I'm just really looking forward to the opportunity," she said.

Kennedy Murphy has been chosen to play for the zone team at the upcoming summer games in Airdrie.

Aiming to stimulate young minds through music

BY PAUL FREY

MVP Staff

As part of spreading the joy of music to children in Didsbury, Kelly Kalden and Jessica Heine started offering Musical Kids classes in February focused around children exploring the world of music.

Kalden said the first 12-week session proved so popular among parents and their children that many have signed up for a new 12-week session that will end early this summer.

"Basically it's a music and sensory program to aid development in kids between zero and seven years. We do all kinds of musical exercises and musical plays to assist the natural development of children," said Kalden.

Research has shown that music is the only stimulus that activates all areas of the brain, so that if it is introduced at a young age, children can benefit greatly from it, she said.

Through the music played at the program, the children learn to manipulate different objects such as balls, which Kalden said results in a higher confidence level among the children.

While there are plenty of programs like Musical Kids in Calgary and other places, there was nothing like it in Didsbury that local parents could bring their children to and get the benefits of development that come through music, she said.

With her musical background – and having taught English as a second language to young children – Kalden said she thought bringing young children and music together would be a great idea.

"Using all those skills together, I try to take a very natural approach to teaching music. It's teaching music a little bit, but most of it is to play with music and explore. You can't tell a two-year-old 'you have to play it like this.' It would not be fun for them," she said.

RCMP urging caution in regard to sales pitch

BY PAUL FREY

MVP Staff

The Didsbury RCMP are urging the public to be cautious in regard to a recent sales pitch in the community.

The local detachment has learned that two weeks ago, individuals representing a company were going door to door soliciting business for their products falsely using specific local detachment members' testimonials endorsing the company's products.

Cpl. Warren Wright said no such testimonials were ever procured by members of the company.

"No member of this detachment had purchased or endorsed the company's products and services and none of the members named by the sales team were aware that their identities were being used as testimonials to lend local credibility towards the sale of the company's products and services,"

Wright said.

"Please be aware that individual RCMP officers simply do not under any circumstances publicly endorse consumer products as members of the RCMP. Should the public encounter any future sales pitches in this regard, please contact the Didsbury RCMP and provide (the officers) with the name and the identification number of the salesperson and the name of the company and related contact information."

Two-vehicle collision sends man to hospital

The driver of a brown Ford Thunderbird sustained non-life-threatening injuries after colliding with a grain truck that had allegedly proceeded unsafely through the intersection of Highway 581 and Rge. Rd. 291, say police.

Didsbury Cst. Mike Dillon said the collision happened around noon on June 6, and that it was found the driver of the grain truck proceeded unsafely through the intersection, causing the collision.

The 52-year-old male driver of the Ford was transported to a Calgary hospital for treatment, he said.

The collision is still under RCMP investigation, although the driver of the grain truck has been charged for failing to obey a stop sign, he noted.

Truck stolen June 9

A 2002 Ford F-450 was stolen in the early morning hours of June 9, said Dillon.

The truck went missing sometime between 3 a.m. and 6 a.m., from 9th Avenue in Carstairs, he noted.

The vehicle was recovered in Olds, and police have no suspects at this time, he said.

"Anybody with information should call their local detachment or Crimestoppers," added Dillon.

Vaccine registry would be good step

The recent outbreak of measles in Alberta and elsewhere in Canada highlights the real and present need for more to be done to reverse the troubling return of this potentially deadly ailment.

DAN SINGLETON

And the apparent reluctance on the part of some parents to have their children vaccinated against measles should raise related questions and concerns for the general public.

Alberta Health declared an official measles outbreak this spring due to an unexpected spike in the number of cases, particularly among young people.

In the end many students and staff were forced to temporarily leave their schools due to the outbreak and the fact they could not or would not confirm they had been vaccinated.

Thankfully there were no fatalities reported in the recent outbreak – and according to health officials, that may have more to do with luck than anything else.

Measles can cause severe complications, including pneumonia, meningitis, encephalitis, and corneal ulcerations leading to blindness. It is particularly dangerous to people with weakened immune systems.

In response to the latest outbreak, the Canadian Medical Association (CMA) is now calling for “strong federal and public health leadership as well as the proper infrastructure to establish an appropriately funded national vaccination strategy.”

In the CMA’s recent Journal editorial, doctors said that a national solution is needed to adequately address the issue.

“Though certain illnesses might respect geographic boundaries, measles will not remain within provincial borders, because it has such a high transmissibility. It must be managed and monitored with a national solution,” said Dr. Gordon Giddings, the CMAJ editorial author.

“Harmonizing of the vaccine schedules across the country would simplify public health messaging, education and programming.”

The CMA is also calling for the creation of a national vaccination registry.

“This would help fill Canada’s information gap by improving disease surveillance and prevention processes,” he said.

Parents should and must have a say in the treatment of their children when it comes to health-care issues such as measles and related vaccinations. At the same time, the public at large also has a vested interest in ensuring that health care comes first.

More should be done to ensure everyone – whether children, parents or members of the public at large – is protected from potentially deadly disease outbreaks such as the one recently seen with measles.

And if that requires the provincial and federal governments to do more and do more now, then that is what should happen.

To do nothing and let the current situation continue as is would be in no one’s best interest.

Commentary

Measles vaccine far safer than not immunizing

DR. JAMES TALBOT

During our province’s measles outbreak, Alberta parents are learning more about the importance of immunization — to protect their child and to protect others. And now, they are learning more about the safety of these vaccines.

Alberta Health monitors and ensures the safety of all vaccines used in the province. Our data and expertise provided the basis for a University of Calgary study released June 9.

This study confirms that both the measles vaccine and the measles-mumps-rubella-varicella (MMRV) vaccine are safe, and its findings will help Alberta parents make well-informed decisions about their child’s immunization and to choose which vaccine their child receives.

The study found a small risk for febrile seizures among children who received the measles-mumps-rubella-varicella vaccine. The risk in Alberta is approximately one for every 2,841 doses administered. These findings are consistent with the results of similar studies conducted in the United States (one in 2,300 doses) and Germany (one in 2,747 doses).

Yet, the protection offered by both vaccines far outweighs the risk. In fact, children who are not vaccinated and contract the measles have a greater chance of having a febrile seizure than those who are immunized. Based on data from the United States Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the risk of febrile seizure from measles is approximately 10 times greater than the risk associated with vaccine. This means the risk of having a febrile seizure after receiving the measles-mumps-rubella-varicella vaccine is six seizures per 10,000 doses. The risk for a child with measles is 60 to 70 seizures per 10,000 children.

Because febrile seizures can accompany high fever, children should be monitored for fever after immunization, especially during days seven to 10. If your child has a fever, ibuprofen or acetaminophen can be used. If you are concerned your child is having an adverse reaction, phone Health Link for advice. Parents who do not want the combined vaccine can choose to have the vaccines separately.

Alberta Health will continue to monitor the vaccines used in our province to ensure they are safe and effective. And we will continue to share this information with Alberta parents.

DHS athletes compete at provincial track and field meet

BY PAUL FREY
MVP Staff

Didsbury High School athletes Ben Strautman, Anna Houtman and Kyra Paulgaard finished in the middle of the pack in their respective events at the provincial track and field championships on June 6 and 7 in Calgary.

Strautman's best throw at the competition in the shot put was 12.3 metres, while Houtman cleared the high jump bar at one metre, 45 centimetres and Paulgaard threw the shot nine metres and the discus 25.61 metres. All three competitors failed to earn personal bests at the competition.

"There were a lot of big kids and they threw really far. I probably would have done better, but I had an off day," Strautman said, noting that he didn't have a top eight finish in the preliminary round to move on to the finals. "I probably could have (moved on)."

Houtman said although she enjoyed herself at the meet, the girls she competed against were strong jumpers. Many of her competitors started at the 1.45-metre height (her best jump at the competition). Houtman cleared two lower heights before attaining her best at the meet.

Paulgaard said she was disappointed in her performance, missing out on her personal bests of 10.5 metres in shot put and 28.09 metres in discus.

"I had kind of a disappointing day. I didn't even throw my average or my personal best, so it was kind of frustrating," she said, adding that she learned that she needs to be a little more focused during her throws to get better results.

Paulgaard was to get that opportunity to improve at a Calgary Track and Field qualifying event on the weekend to see who would go to the Alberta Summer Games in Airdrie from July 24 to 27.

Fun for everyone at derby

BY PAUL FREY
MVP Staff

The 14th annual Soap Box Derby in Didsbury on June 14 went off very well, just as organizers had hoped.

A total of 22 participants rode their way down a one-kilometre stretch of Highway 582, with Kobi Chant being declared grand champion.

After a practice run and elimination heats, Chant, his brother Colin (the B division winner), Levi Simpson (the C division winner), Ryan Krause (the D division winner) and bearing class champion Landon MacRae squared off for the overall title.

"Nobody got hurt and it was lots of fun," said Kyle Krause, 11, after one of his heats.

This was Krause's third year participating in the derby. Like this year, Krause said he had a lot of fun in his previous years' races.

"They were good. Last year I got grand champion," he said.

Collun Deditch also came out for his third year of racing on June 14.

"It went well," said Deditch.

George Pieper, a member of the Didsbury Lions Club who started the derby, said the objective of the event was to get families and the community together.

"We wanted to put on something that involved families and they could get together and build a car and race a car. It's all about family," said Pieper, noting that the derby is always held the day before Father's Day.

Pieper said although the derby has traditionally been held on the day before Father's Day, in the future it may be moved to another time of year, as Lions Club members are increasingly busy with other activities at this time of year.

While other volunteers have been recruited to help organize the event in recent years because the Lions haven't always been able to muster all of the volunteers needed, Pieper said in the future the Lions Club may turn over the main organizing of the event to other volunteers but still help out wherever Lions members can.

Pieper said it takes about 25 to 30 people to organize the event – almost the entire Lions Club membership – so other volunteers help out.

As for the venue itself, Pieper said he and Ray Lea, another Lions Club member, drove all around the area to find a good spot.

"Ray Lea and I drove all over the country (trying to find) a suitable hill and something that wasn't too steep and dangerous, and something that gave some kind of a challenge, and we found this hill right close to home," said Pieper.

The course, adjacent to the Reimer Plaza, also has enough parking for families to drop off their racers and their carts.

Pieper said although it was quite a process to close the highway the first year the race was held, once officials with Alberta Transportation understood why the club wanted to close the road, they have been helpful and understanding ever since.

In recent years, Pieper said town officials have assisted by contacting Alberta Transportation to get the necessary approvals to temporarily close the section of highway.

"The first time, we had to start in plenty of time, tell them what we were doing and why we were doing it, and what the end result would be," he said.

The IRVINE family extends our most heartfelt thank you and appreciation to Didsbury Home Care / Palliative Care, Dr. Robert Collingridge, Dr. Niel Smit, and Case Manager Kathy Hutcheon, RN and the other RN's and home care workers who all helped to provide care for our mom, Laura. The dedication, compassion, and friendship shown to our mom and to our family is greatly appreciated.

Thank you,
Brian L. Irvine

THANK YOU

SPRETER - The family of Catherine (Kitty) Spreter would like to thank family, friends and neighbors for the cards, phone calls, flowers, prayers and their attendance at Mom's funeral service. Thank you to Brenda Watt for the nice funeral service and tribute to mom, and Jim Howells for his musical skills. Thank you to Heartland Funeral Services of Olds for their kindness and guidance. Thank you to Debbie for arranging the luncheon and to all the ladies that served it. We are forever grateful to Aspen Ridge Lodge for their care and compassion to Mom during the years she lived there, as well as their support to us. Our heartfelt thanks, Denise Leask, Marie Heffernan and families.
